Westerly Trolley Patrons Patient

Do Not Complain Over Inconvenience of Pawcatuck Line Improvements-Watch Hill Cottagers' Grievance Exaggerated-Committee Inspects Rcuts-Motion Denied In Chapman Case-Harold Russ Overcome by

The controversy between summer residents of Watch Hill and the management of the Pawcatuck Valley street railway has finally narrowed down to the users of automobiles and those who of necessity still ride in trolley cars and the latter are in the vast majority. The Watch Hill people, or some of them, have declared that the rebuilding and refurnishing of the trolley road must stop immediately and not be resumed until the close of the season, as the visitors do not propose to be in the least inconvenienced during their summer stay at Watch Hill. They are not over favorable of having a trolley route to that growing and fashionable resort.

The constructing contractor does not open up a stretch of work over a thousand feet in length and at the point where the men are now at work point where the men are now at work the road is narrow, and therefore only oom enough for a single line of auto-nobles at a time, so at times there is liable to be slight delay at either and of the stretch, and that is about end of the stretch, and that is about the extent of the inconvenience to automobilists and teamsters, who are registering the protest.

The trolley patrons have to walk this distance in the dusty road, but the great majority of these have patience, realizing that a much needed improved trolley service cannot be attained without temporary inconvenience.

The trolley management is carrying on this work as best they can and with the least possible interference with public traffic, which means an increase in the spst of construction. It has been suggested that the road be closed in the sections where the work is progressing and thus make it possible for a speedler completion, as was done when the Watch Hill road was rebuilt, and to which there came no objection from the summer residents. bjection from the summer residents, fine speedway was being constructed or automobiles

Pendleton, as treasurer of the town of Westerly, which denies the motion. In connection with the rebuilding of the Watch Hill road, three years ago. Mr. Chapman brought two actions against the town for damages. One was an appeal from proceedings in condemnation and the court awarded Mr. Chapman $300, and in the other, a case of trespass, $600 was awarded. The town accepted the decision for $300, but made motion for a new trial

It is planned to have music at the start and finish and to burn red fire along the music.

Harold Russ had a narrow escape from asphyxiation by illuminating gas Wednesday afternoon. He is employed by the Westerly Light and Power company and was at work on a gas meter in an unoccupied room on the second floor of John T. Murphy's building in Canal street. Mr. Murphy heard a shout and noise as if someone had fallen, and he hurried up stairs. He found Russ lying unconscious on the floor, and there was a strong odor of escaping gas.

Dr. John L. May was summoned and dies Mr. Russ was revived. He was assisted to the office of the company and taken to his home in an automo-bile. He says he did not realize that he was inhaling much gas, until he be-gan to feel the effects, and managed to shout for help just before losing con-sciousness. He complained of nausea and a feeling of weakness, but believed he would be able to continue his work without any loss of time.

"When I first came to this pulpit," said the minister. "I was a little shocked to hear some of our laymen speak of the church as a plant. They asked me if I did not think we had a fine little plant here, and it sounded odd to me. I had not lived in a manufacturing town before and I had not learned that the thing which we, in our rough American speech, call a plant is in reality a noble institution, full of life and usefulness and intimately associated with the welfare and happiness of hundreds of people around it. I have more respect for plants now than I had then, and I am proud to feel that this church is so full of help for the world about it and se efficient in distributing that help that it deserves and receives the familiar appellation. GROWS HAIR PROVE IT!

A lady from Minnesota writes:
"As a result of using Danderine, my hair is close to five feet in length,"

Beautiful Hair at Small Cost HAIR troubles, like many other diseases, have been wrongly disgaosed and altogether misunderstood. The hair itself is not the thing to be treated, for the reason that it is simply a product of the scalp and wholly dependent upon its action. The scalp is the very soil in which the hair is produced, nurtured and grown, and it alone should receive the attention if results are to be expected. It would do no carthly good to treat the stem of a plant with a view of making it grow and become more beautiful—the soil in which the plant grows must be attended to. Therefore, the scalp in which the hair grows must receive the attention if you are to expect it to grow and become more beautiful.

Loss of hair is caused by the scalp drying up, or losing its supply of moisture or nutriment; when baldness occurs the scalp has simply lost all its nourishment, leaving nothing for the hair to feed upon (a plant or even a tree would die under similar conditions.)

conditions.)

The natural thing to do in either case, is to feed and replenish the soil or scalp as the case may be, and your crop will grow and multiply as nature intended it should.

Knowlton's Danderine has a most wonderful effect upon the hair glands and tissues of the scalp. It is the only remedy for the hair ever discovered that is similar to the natural hair foods or liquids of the scalp.

It penchates the poses quickly and the hair

It penetrates the pores quickly and the hair soon shows the effects of its wonderfully exhilarating and life-producing qualities.

One 25-cent bettle is enough to convince you of its great worth as a hair growing and hair beautifying remedy—try it and see for yourself.

NOW at all drugglets in three sizes, 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle.
